DORCHESTER HOUSE®

ROMWEBER invites you to enjoy an exciting new concept in "Furniture of Timeless Beauty,"® which reflects the highest standards of craftsmanship of our renowned company.

The inspiration of an unusual carved post on a bed crafted in England in 1066, coupled with the creative ability of designer H. Paul Browning, has resulted in this distinctive collection of fine furniture, Dorchester House.

The magnitude of the importance of this grouping is reflected by Romweber initiating a program of registering each piece. Dorchester House has the originality of design, perfection of craftsmanship, and superb finish that provide heirloom qualities—and in time a coveted antique that can be positively authenticated by its registry at Romweber.

Dorchester House offers a total concept of home furnishings that could be related to all living areas in the home or office. There are no two pieces alike, nor are details or design elements borrowed from one piece to another. Yet all pieces are complementary, forming an eclectic composition of individually designed pieces.

Circassian Walnut, Carpathian Elm Burl, Cherry, leather, cane, and brass have been masterfully blended in a contemporary interpretation of traditional form. The demanding requirements for intricate carving, veneering; distressing and finishing could only be achieved by the master cabinetmakers of Romweber.
